

'Shanty Town' Threatens Arlington - Mount Prospect

Through the avarice of an Arlington Heights man who dabbles in real estate under an incorporated name, the Arlington-Mt. Prospect area is threatened with a shanty town. The realtor who is advertising unrestricted building lots is perfectly frank that he has no investment in the proposition and he will sell what he can as quick as he can collect what commission is accessible during the coming summer and pass on to new pastures.

The Funk farm where a huge sign advertises the fact that the lots will be sold for $200 with small payments, is located on the west side of Elmhurst road, north of Mt. Prospect, opposite the new deluxe subdivision of Smith & Dawson.

The small price of the lots is not what is worrying neighboring lot owners. The sting is in those two words, "No Restrictions," which encourages and means a shanty town, similar to that upon the corner of Palatine and River roads and in numerous other localities in Cook county.

The farm in question is under mortgage for twice its farming value; the owner hopes to get something for himself if and when the final payments are made by the purchasers; the mortgage holder wants to get out from under and the realty man does not give a hang for the resulting damage to his neighbors as long as there is money in the proposition for him.

The immediate effect Sunday of the erection of the sign was a hurried meeting of the people who had purchased lots along the road and had erected homes costing from $5,000 upwards. A special committee was appointed to see what could be done. Officials of Mt. Prospect and Arlington Heights were called into conference; Chicago attorneys were consulted.

The realtor in question, safe in the knowledge that he knows how to circumvent the law, smilingly says, "What is it to me?" He accused Smith & Dawson of being too conscientious and interfering with their own subs to interfere with opportunities to make a lot of money.

The Smith & Dawson subdivision, north of Mt. Prospect, was probably one of the first rural subdivisions in the United States that was qualified by the FHA for loans. That rating was not given to them until the government had been fully convinced that Messrs. Smith & Dawson were sincere in their plans to create a new community in that area and would restrict all property included therein. The FHA officials went a step further and required of these gentlemen an agreement to use their best endeavors to have restrictions placed upon adjoining property when such property is thrown open for sale.

Mr. Smith and his partner have endeavored to purchase the Funk farm, but did not succeed on account of the size of the mortgage against it and the amount of unpaid taxes. The realty firm endeavoring to dump a shanty town upon the front yards of Arlington Heights and Mt. Prospect is well aware that as long as the property in question is not actually subdivided by plat, restrictions can not be enforced and neighboring property owners and villages must "take it and like it."

Such attitude in the minds of many, calls for stringent action, even to the extent of asking a thorough investigation by the state department of registration into business practices and other operations of the firm in question.

Editor's note—The above article is one of the strongest that has ever been published in this paper, but the publishers feel that the threat to property values in this area warrants strong words and are not afraid to place them in print. They also have available other facts relative to members or members of the firm in question that will be released if such release will aid the state department in determining the right of this firm to continue business practices that are contrary to public welfare.

Fire Chiefs Only Ones Who Answer Fire Call

When a fire call arrived at the office of Fire Chief Geo. K. Volz, from the Anton Schaefer residence of North State road, Tuesday, the latter with assistant Richard Jahn, went directly to the residence where they learned that the reason they were the only firemen at the place was because the blaze had been extinguished and the call cancelled before the equipment left the fire house.

U. S. Supreme Court Has Nothing On Arlington Heights Fire Department

President Roosevelt has his Supreme Court and Arlington Heights village board has its fire department. The President did not hesitate to wield a big stick over the heads of the patriarchs who had failed to resign and Congress voted a full salary for the rest of their days is a bait to the members of the supreme court who will voluntarily retire from public service.

The Arlington Heights village board is not contemplating any full time salary for fire fighters who will retire, but the aldermen are seeking diplomatic words in which to convey to the department the thought that a sixty year old man can not handle fire hose as expeditiously as a fellow in his twenties or his thirties.

Admitting that experienced firemen are worth keeping even if the years are crowding them near the sixty or sixty-five mark, the village board is favoring exempting officers from the new regulations that are in the process of being made. Present members can stay on the force until they reach the grandpa age of 65, but all new members will join the department with full knowledge that theirs is not a life time job and when they reach their 55th birthday the door will be held open for them to go into private life.

Where our nation's president asks for more members the Arlington village dads think that less man power is needed to handle the new modern equipment than was needed in the bucket brigade days. Thus membership in the Arlington Heights fire department will be closed until such future time as seven of the boys "die off" to lower the membership roll to twenty.

Don't get excited folks. The above is not yet a law, and present firemen have nearly a life-time job, but the points mentioned above were gathered from the remarks made by the board members at the regular meeting Monday evening, when the proposed new firemen's ordinance was read for the first time.

Road Plans Ready for Approval

Widening of West Campbell Street Part of Program

Arlington Heights village board is organizing a road construction and improvement program for this spring that calls for a three cornered deal between the village, the state highway department and the WPA agencies.

The program includes the widening to 20 feet of West Campbell street where there now exists only a twelve foot pavement; acquiring by dedication a widened Ridge avenue from Campbell street to the site of the Creamery package and its improvement with a hard road; and the improvement of Hickory street at the east side of the village and the west end of Miner street.

The highway department will be asked to allow use of gas tax funds to widen Campbell street and surface Ridge avenue. WPA labor will be asked to grade these roads and to repair Hickory-Miner street with an allowance for materials.

A representative of the office of the village engineer was present at the meeting of the Arlington Heights village board Monday evening and promised to have complete plans for these improvements ready in a week.

The advisability of local police continuing present practice of apprehending trucks with overloaded trucks was discussed. The police reported that the department had been asked to cooperate with the state in this matter. The purpose was not to arrest a driver whose truck was overloaded as much as to force truckers to purchase the right license for the loads that they expected to carry. The board took no action.

Fines paid into the treasury for 31 violations since the last report total $180. The police will be used to distribute license applications to business houses.

With the need of repairs for the northside pump, the board authorized that bids be secured from well men for "pulling" the present pump and learning extent of needed repairs.

No Local Elections This Spring

Primary Is Only Excitement, Except School Elections

If the voters want any excitement this spring, they will have to get it all at the primaries, which will be April 5. The local angle of the latter will be the race for Democratic committeeships in Wheeling and Elk Grove townships. The Republican candidates have no opposition.

There will be no township, village, library or park elections. The various school districts, including those under boards of education will hold elections, but such events do not call for much excitement or opposition.

However, there will be a special election March 26, called by George K. Volz, treasurer of Wheeling township, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Mr. Nichol. It is understood that Henry Burmeister of Dist. 26, has consented to be a candidate for the job of school trustee, which is a thankless and payless public office.

The present two members, whose terms do not expire at this time are John Schoenbeck of District 25 and Frank Wellfin, of District 21.

The special election according to publication notice contained in this issue, will be held in the school houses of Wheeling village, District 25, and the north school of district 23.

All of the rural school elections will be held under a new law that became effective last July. The voters of the districts will meet in the various school houses Saturday evening, April 9 and proceed to hold a caucus, nominating one or more candidates. The caucus must be held 30 minutes before the opening of the polls, according to Noble J. Puffer, county superintendent of schools.

The voter must write upon the ballots, which will be provided by the county superintendent, the name of the candidate desired and place a cross in square before the name.

Double Funeral To Be Held Thursday For Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bray, Arlington Heights

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bray will be laid to rest side by side this Thursday afternoon in Arlington Heights cemetery. Following a double funeral in the Methodist church, Rev. Loughlin officiating.

Mrs. Bray died Saturday and twenty-three hours later, her husband quietly rejoined his life's companion in death as he had in life. Both were seriously ill and while Mr. Bray was not in any condition to be told of the passing of his wife, he seemed to sense that she was gone as he fell into a coma, from which he did not awaken.

Mr. Bray has been unwell the past four years and was taken seriously ill in November, 1936. Mr. Bray has not been very well the past two years, but was only taken to his bed last December.

Although unable to be in the same room, Mr. Bray inquired as to the welfare of his wife almost every time he became conscious the last few days. The commotion occasioned by her death could not be felt from him, but the family kept the actual news from him.

Mr. Bray was a life long resident of Arlington Heights and in his quiet way was a good citizen, never seeking public office. His only public work was as a member of the fire department. However, he served many years as superintendent at the Bray & Kates factory and later the Creamery Package manufacturing plant, from which he retired five years ago. It was through scores of factory employees that knew him best, admired him for his fairness and through his ability as a leader of men, was able to hold a responsible position so many years.

Thomas Bray, son of John and Jane Bray, was born in Campbellford, Canada, on June 18, 1863. He came to Illinois in his early youth and found employment in the hardware store of his uncle, Joseph Bray. Later he entered the Bray & Kates factory and when it was taken over by the Creamery Package Co., he continued as superintendent until his retirement five years ago.

On Oct. 9, 1902, Mr. Bray was united in marriage to Friedericka Reiter, daughter of Peter and Francis Reiter, who was born in Des Plaines on Nov. 3, 1874. To them were born two children, Arthur Richard and Elizabeth Florence, who, with one grandchild, and a daughter of Mr. Bray by a former marriage, survive them.

Former Baseball Star Coming To Arlington

Jack Hendricks, Famous Big Leaguer, And Manager, Will Speak At Democratic Meeting Monday

John C. (Jack) Hendricks, who graduated from amateur and semi-pro baseball lots of Chicago and vicinity to the National and American leagues as a player and manager, will speak before the Democratic meeting to be held at the Presbyterian gymnasium, Arlington Heights, Monday evening, March 14, at 8 p. m.

Mr. Hendricks is one of the best known men in the baseball fraternity. His phenomenal rise in baseball and his clean management of the major league clubs has endeared him to the sports loving public and the demands on him for appearances is very great.

During the World War when major league baseball was temporarily discontinued, Mr. Hendricks enlisted his services and went to France as an overseas secretary of the Knights of Columbus. Here he added greatly to the morale of the A. E. F. in staging the athletic events in which our boys participated.

Mr. Hendricks has one of the most remarkable and retentive memories of any of baseball's veterans, and can recall any player or incident on the slightest provocation. He will relate his experiences and answer all questions pertaining to baseball.

Homer J. Byrd, Wheeling township committeeman, will present his very dear friend, Mr. Hendricks, and everyone is cordially invited to attend this meeting. In addition there will be brief addresses by candidates running on the Horner-Courtney-Jarecki ticket.

Bandit Shoots Local Resident

Edward Neverman, 58, who resides on Palatine road, Arlington Heights, was wounded early Tuesday, when a masked gunman held up the Liggett drug store at 2 S. State St., escaping with $1,100 taken from a second floor office safe.

Neverman is night manager of the store located the busiest corner in the world. He had locked the store at midnight and was in his office on the balcony when the robber ordered him to open the safe, saying:

"Open that safe and no funny stuff. I know you know the combination."

Mr. Neverman did not resist, but the bandit in his nervousness during the holdup discharged the gun, wounding the former slightly. Despite his wound Neverman opened the safe and gave the bandit the day's receipts.

The bandit had apparently hidden in the store before midnight and knew the routine practiced by Neverman who was bent over the safe after locking it when he was confronted by the bandit.

The bandit seized the money and fled.

If It's Buick Talk To Harry Knaack

When Harry Knaack entered the automobile business a few months ago by purchasing the Roehrer Motor Sales, he pictured that there was some hard work in store for him. He now says that whether or not he puts in long hours, he gets a big kick out of selling such cars as the 1938 Buick, which is taking the country by storm. "Ask anybody who owns one," says Harry, "and you will learn that Buick owners, themselves hear from all sides, all manner of praises for the car they are driving. It is a pleasure to talk about the Buick and I think it is the easiest to sell of any of the real good cars."

Mr. Knaack does not expect to sell Buicks to all of his friends, but he is trying to impress upon them there is no better place to buy a Buick than from Harry himself.

RETURN FROM WESTERN TRIP Mrs. Wytzykus and daughter have returned from their three months trip west and invite all their friends to come to the Elk Grove Inn.

Palatine Service Man Makes Effort To Learn Exact Facts

"If you happen to have an accident on the highway and the garage man charges you $10.00 or more for the towing job don't think that he is a robber or a get rich quick artist," says Otto Gaare of Palatine.

He is only getting a service for what he does but $5.00 of the amount you pay goes to the state police who are on the job.

Graft? Yes. Racket? Yes, and its being worked every day in the week by the gang of political pay-rollers who masquerade in Illinois under the name of the state police and are paid out of the taxpayers money to protect life and property and create a respect for law and order.

Otto Gaare of the Gaare Service station in Palatine has had many a run-in with the state police in their racket business and the other day Otto just got so fed-up on it all that he gave some facts that are startling.

It seems that whenever there is an accident the state police want to dictate who shall tow in the wrecked cars.

The officers tell the garage men and the owners that no car can be moved without their permission and then they inform the garage man that there must be a five spot in it for them for giving him the job.

Mr. Gaare's most recent run-in with racketeering policemen of the state force took place a few days ago when the Gaare Service Station hauled in a car which was in an accident on the Northwest highway near Dundee road.

Otto himself wasn't present but the state police and some of his employees had a warm dispute on the car hauling business.

A day or two later Otto tried to secure the names of the officers in that case by calling up the state police station but he was refused any information by the sergeant in charge.

Finally, determined to find out once and for all if an auto owner could or could not order his car moved following an accident Mr. Gaare sent a telegram to secretary of State Hughes at Springfield.

His message was evidently relayed to the highway police department for in reply he received the following telegram:

Otto Gaare,
Gaare Oil Co.,
Palatine, Ill.

Owner has a right to have car removed from the highway but if state police are present at scene of accident state police have right to inspect the accident before car is removed.

(Signed) Walter Williams,
Supt. of Ill. State Highway
Maintenance Police.

This telegram seems to set at rest once and for all the question as to a car owner's right to have his car moved and moved by whoever he wants to have move it.

It shows that some state police officers have taken the law into their own hands, have misrepresented the law to car owners and garage men and have been working a big "racket" for their own financial gain.

And all the while they have been paid out of the state treasury to protect life and property and uphold the law.

THE VILLAGE PARSON SAYS:

Jesus took all the complexity out of the religion of his day with one single exhortation, "love one another."

He spoke to the plain people, addressing himself to their common sense. Dr. Samuel H. Purvis, has written:

"His word was like an ocean, on whose shore philosophers stand and gaze with wonder, while children sport in its waters about their feet."

In reading the gospels, we search in vain for His use of our big theological words: justification, predestination, transubstantiation and the like. His words were:

"Light, life, joy, trust, hope, peace and rest." He says, "I am the bread of life," "I am the door," "I am the light of the world." Every word is of one syllable.

Some cynic said that the style of Gibbon, the historian, was one in which it was impossible to tell the truth.

In the style of Jesus, the teacher, it is impossible to tell a lie.

Frederick J. Schnell,
"The Village Parson."

Resting in a sea of blue cellophane was a ship model of the Normandie with her red and black smoke stacks, making an attractive center piece. Red and black candles added to the effectiveness of the table. The guests were served French pastries made by Mrs. Mors and beautifully decorated. Each guest found by her place, menu cards which were expertly copied from an original menu card from the Normandie.

After the luncheon the guests were anxious to start on their journey. Ship sailings were investigated and rates considered, and the group were off under the able guidance of Mrs. Bruce Jarvis and "Cook's Guide and Maps." Much of the tour was enjoyed in the French language and most of the places of outstanding interest in Paris were visited. Quite some time was spent enjoying the beauty of Notre Dame. From Paris the group traveled to Versailles to see the Palace of the Louis and other historical spots. Many splendid pictures of Paris were loaned by Mrs. Fred Schmitt and much material was obtained from the Steamship line to make the trip more realistic. Time came for the gang plank to be pulled in for the return journey all too soon, but in the back of the travelers' minds were thoughts of just such a trip some time in the future.

Bowling Notes

by HERB HAMMERL

With the league leadership at stake, the Hamm and Blatz teams started to put on a very good exhibition of booster squad bowling in the first game Monday night. The Hamm finally won 829 to 721, but the last two games went to Blatz by a comfortable margin. Blatz gained a game and are now only one game out of first place. High honors went to Marty Engelking with 601 and a 241 game. Marty has been doing some fair country bowling of late. The "Booby" prize was divided between Dixie Kehe and this writer. Look the scores over to find out the reason.

The Elevators took two games from El Rand on 3 and 4. Elevators got 1042 their last game. Louie Sadecky was high with 625, nailing out Al Pederson with 619, but Al took the dollar away from Louie 248 to 247. Harry Nordendale got 609 and Alex Skeloff 606 for the Elevators. The Elevators had high total for the night getting 2923. J. O. is backing the lineup after a four week's layoff.

On 5 and 6, Krause Market took 3 games from the Cafe without much effort. Fred Kehe was high with 607 and Otto Krause got his second "600" series in a row 605. "Romio" Becker didn't have his mind on bowling. Better sharpen the pencil for next week "Beck".

Let us keep Lent! Kneeling down before the stark cross of Calvary upon which our Saviour hangs bleeding and dying, we will begin to realize all the pettiness of our own prejudices, all the rage of our own righteousness, all the shame of our soul stupidity, and all the idiocy of our idolatries. Calvary revolutionizes life. The high become low, and the low high. Calvary symbolizes the whole beauty and the whole tragedy of human life. To the thoughtful Christian, Calvary will have become more than a plot of memory; it will have become a chastening and redeeming reality.

We extend to the public a most cordial welcome to attend our worship services.

County Has Reduced Debt, Says Erickson

County Commissioner Replies To Republican Demand For Tax Cuts

The all-time debt reduction of Cook county last year was cited by County Commissioner William M. Erickson as effectively nullifying the ill-founded demands for tax decreases being made by campaign opponents in the Republican primary race.

Branding the charges of Republican opponents as made in "bad faith," Commissioner Erickson declared that the county owed more the largest cut in liabilities of any local government during 1937.

More than one-quarter the entire county debt was cut during the past year alone, amounting to almost 18 million dollars. This huge retirement of obligations resulted in greatly improved credit rating for the county government, he asserted, and placed the outstanding bonds among the best investment securities in the nation.

"This reduction in county liabilities was the most important action urged by the present Republican members of the board from the suburban districts outside Chicago," Commissioner Erickson pointed out in his formal statement. "During the past four years when the rest of the United States was attempting to pull out of the depression, the commissioners were fighting to stabilize the county's financial program, ultimately resulting in a high degree of success."

Judgments against the county, formerly totaling one million dollars, were likewise erased during 1937, it was revealed in the commissioner's report. Outstanding bonds were reduced from 47 million to less than 38 million dollars, while the total county debt including all items was decreased from 63 million to approximately 45 million dollars.

Mt. Prospect Bank Employee To Visit South America On Honeymoon

Miss Bella Grimm, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gustave Grimm, of Mt. Prospect, assistant cashier at the Mt. Prospect State Bank, became the bride Wednesday, March 9, of Mr. Ernest Rammon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rammon, 4451 N. Artesian avenue, Chicago.

The ceremony was performed at the parsonage of St. Paul's Ev. Lutheran church, by Rev. J. E. Mueller at 4:30 p. m. Only the immediate families and attendants were present.

The bride wore beige with an orchid corsage. Miss Margaret Helwig was maid of honor and wore blue and a corsage of roses. Mr. Philip Holubek was best man.

Following the ceremony the bridal party enjoyed dinner at a Chicago hotel and at ten o'clock left for New York, where they boarded the S. S. New York for a cruise to the West Indies and South America, stopping at Kingston, Jamaica, Cartagena, Colon, Panama and Havana, Cuba. They will be at home to their friends after April 1.

Mr. Rammon has been employed as a private secretary in the Chicago Cubs organization for the past ten years.

Mrs. Rammon has been employed at the Mt. Prospect State Bank ten years and has served as assistant cashier, a large part of that time. Many of the patrons of that bank have known her as Bella and they will miss her smiling face from that window where she was always ready to serve the public so promptly and courteously.

A dinner party in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Rammon was recently given by William Busse, Jr., when a special gift was presented to the bride from the bank that she has served so faithfully.

A linen shower was another pre-nuptial event, with Miss Helwig as the hostess.

See Far From Isle of Man
The Isle of Man is the only place in the British Isles from which England, Ireland and Scotland can be seen from the same spot.

It Happened Here

March 1st—Our oracle says this is grand sugar weather; we hope the boys on the old farm are getting the spiles and pails down from the woodshed attic and loading them in to the milk wagon—carrying on the tradition of three generations of sugar makers in the bush across Hickory creek, the big black kettle will have its place of honor and the brace and bit will roll around on the wagon floor—How'd you like to set your teeth into a real gob of maple wax? If we should get a sample from the sugar bush we might call it on the Herald some day... Suitably to usher in the first day of this spring month, we had buttered parsnips for supper—supper in the kitchen with a west door, the firelight playing on the ceiling, the afterglow of sunset on the snow under the old pear tree and a fresh hole in the garden row where the potato fork pried loose a mess of parsnips from the half frozen black soil... It may not be a scoop, but our first robin was calling and scolding at sunset from the safe refuge of the secluded garden next door; the family who own the garden have gone to Florida and no doubt the robin has permission to scout around and do a little real estate work before the season opens—We hurried to the phone to send the word around so that doors opened and ears were alert to catch the friendly voice of this harbinger of spring—We hope the pleasant voiced telephone girl sensed that the phone was being used to welcome our returning musician... A carpenter can wear a hammer and a ruler in his hip pocket; the jaunty manner and tear shingles off the barn roof with a lovely ripping sound; the music of his tap-tapping hammer carries in friendly wise all over this end of the village—We always had a yearning to see the world from the ridge-pole of a barn, an ambition possibly not to be realized in this incarnation—Imagine being paid to do it.

Horner Leader Address Wheeling Democratic Women

W. Frank Walkowiak, one of the Horner leaders in Cook county delivered one of his stirring addresses against corrupt politics at a meeting of the Wheeling Democratic women organization held Tuesday evening at the Homer J. Byrd home. Mr. Walkowiak has a biting sarcasm at his command which enables him to give a hard punch to the points that he desires to impress upon his hearers.

The Wheeling ladies who are working in the interest of the Horner-Courtney-Jarecki candidates are planning an active campaign before the primaries, especially in the interest of Homer J. Byrd, who is candidate for Democratic committee of Wheeling township.

No Short Cut To Success Says Jeanette MacDonald

Jeanette MacDonald has never had any spare time. What would otherwise have been spare time, she has devoted to self-improvement ever since she can remember.

When she was four years old she started taking piano and dancing lessons, wanting to follow in the footsteps of her older sisters, Elsie and Blossom. Those lessons meant supervised practice six days a week.

When she was fourteen she had her first chance to appear in a Broadway revue, Ned Wayburn's "Demi Tasse." Under Blossom's instructions she learned the dance routines and songs. For several seasons she appeared in those revues, but she never forgot her ultimate ambition to become an opera or concert singer. She took voice lessons regularly. She also found time to study ballet with Albertina Rasch.

It is this same Albertina Rasch who created the dance routines for Miss MacDonald's current picture, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's adaptation of the Rudolf Friml operetta, "The Firefly" in which her pupil of years ago appears in the title role at the Arlington Theatre Sunday and Monday.

"Every day," declared the star, "I receive letters from youngsters all over the world, wanting to know what is the secret of my success. There is no secret of success but work and the willingness to improve yourself constantly."

"Given that willingness and all the sincerity of which you're capable, and a certain amount of native talent to start with—yes, I do believe you need that—there isn't any reason why anyone shouldn't reach very near the top."

Asserting that she didn't want to appear as though offering a peach, Miss MacDonald added that the greatest danger for any star is to imagine that he or she has reached the top.

"There really isn't any top where you can stay indefinitely," she explained. "Public tastes change, newcomers soar upwards. You may seem to be entrenched, but the minute you become self-satisfied you're licked. That's why I try to develop some new side of myself for every new picture. Just for my own good."

Asks Injunction And Accounting of Assessment Funds In Niles Center

Suit has been filed in Superior court by Laurence S. Roth, et al against the Village of Niles Center and Collector Gultiz for an injunction and accounting of assessment funds.

Plaintiffs who claim to own $1,000 of special assessment bonds that came due Jan. 1, but were not paid allege the village received $2,000 in cash, but has not accounted for it. They allege the collector is holding the cash so someone can exchange bonds for it.

They claim that while exchange of bonds to pay assessments is legal that it is not legal to exchange bonds for cash after the cash has been paid into the village, and they ask distribution of the cash to bondholders and an accounting of the funds paid in.

Untimely Death of Mrs. Howard Helm Deeply Mourned in Many Circles

Mrs. Meta Helm, wife of Howard Helm, township clerk, died suddenly shortly after midnight, Saturday evening. She had recently returned home from a course of treatments taken at Rochester, Minn. She appeared to be in excellent health and was rejoicing with her family that she was again able to be with them. As late as Saturday evening, she had enjoyed dinner with her family.

The funeral, which was one of the largest ever held from the Arlington Heights Methodist church, took place Tuesday afternoon. Rev. Loughlin, pastor of the local church officiated. Solos were by Mrs. Beatrice Alden, an esteemed friend of the deceased. Interment was in Arlington cemetery.

The sudden death of Mrs. Howard Helm was a surprise and a shock to the vast number of her personal friends and the members of the many organizations with which the deceased was connected. As a loyal member of her church and ever ready to do her part, she had taken a prominent position in many of its organizations. The Fidelis, ladies aid, Corephilia Society, and mothers club had known her for many years as a member and often as an officer.

Her activities were also directed along other cultural lines. She was serving her second year as treasurer of the Arlington Heights Woman's club and was one of the enthusiastic members of the Garden club, ever taking great interest in plants and their flowers, and took a great deal of pleasure in assisting her husband in the care of the Helm gardens. Mrs. Helm was also a member of Arlington Heights Chapter No. 992 Order of Eastern Star.

Great as were the pleasures that she took in these, her greatest joy was her own home. She created for her family and husband a home atmosphere that leaves behind a memory that will cheer them in the years to come.

There is one member of the family group that especially feels his loss—the 88 year old father of her husband, Mr. Lewis Helm—who spends each summer in Arlington Heights. When she was taken ill, a few months ago, word of her condition was kept from Mr. Helm for fear of the effect it might have upon him, but it was he who received a telegram addressed to another member of the family, was the first of the Californian relatives to learn of her passing. And it was Mr. Helm who displaying that spirit that the deceased would have wished, immediately forwarded to the stricken members of the immediate family in Arlington Heights, a message that will occupy in their hearts the same corner as the memory of the departed wife and mother.

Meta Scharringhausen, daughter of Henry and Louise Scharringhausen, was born in Elk Grove township January 22, 1888. When still a little girl, the family moved to Arlington Heights, which had been her home ever since. Attending the Lutheran and elementary schools, Meta was united in marriage to Mr. Howard Helm June 22, 1916. To them were born two children, Dorothy Mae and Lewis G. There also remains her only sister, Mrs. Della Crane. Her father, mother and brother, Alvin, preceded her in death.

Elk Grove 4-H Club Officers Elected

The 4-H club of Elk Grove held a business meeting at the home of Alvin Behrens on March 6. The following officers were elected: Vernon Deek, president; Jack Garlich, vice president; Roland Buss, secretary-treasurer; Melva Behrens, recreation chairman; and Leona Deek, press reporter. Three new members were admitted to the club—Jack Garlich, Margaret Garlich and Adeline Deek. Refreshments were served.

OBITUARIES

MRS. DOROTHY BEHRENS

Mrs. Dorothy Behrens, age 77 years, 7 months and 12 days, passed away at her home with Mr. and Mrs. George Behrens, on Route 53 about 2 miles north of Itasca, Sunday evening. Mrs. Behrens has made her home on this farm ever since her marriage to Mr. William Behrens, May 3, 1888. Mr. Behrens passed away October 23, 1926.

She leaves to mourn her departure five living children, Mrs. Emma Kastning, Mr. William F. Behrens, Mrs. Dina Greve, Mr. George Behrens, Mr. Herman Behrens; three daughters-in-law and two sons-in-law; 22 grandchildren and one great grandchild; one sister, Mrs. Emma Linneveh and one brother, Mr. Conrad Reese.

Funeral services will be Thursday afternoon, March 10, 1938 at 1 p. m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Behrens and at 1:30 p. m. at the Schaumburg Lutheran church, Rev. Carl Pfothauer officiating; funeral arrangements by Dzur & Karstens; interment in Schaumburg cemetery.

GEORGE W. MAYER

George W. Mayer, 71 years old, a retired employee of Carson, Pirie Scott & Co., Chicago, died Sunday night at his home, 313 Division street, Elgin, following a brief illness. He was born in Watertown, N. Y., on Feb. 7, 1867, and had been a resident of Elgin for 10 years, moving here from Bartlett where he had previously made his home for a 21-year period.

Mr. Mayer worked at Carson's in Chicago for 31 years, and at the time of his retirement eight years ago was city buyer for that firm.

He was married to Miss Hattie Himmel, on Feb. 16, 1888, the couple having celebrated their golden wedding anniversary last month.

Mr. Mayer was a member of the First Evangelical church.

He survived by the widow, Mrs. Hattie Mayer of Elgin; a daughter, Miss Mildred Mayer of Elgin; three sons, Roy Mayer of Jefferson, Ia., Harold Mayer of Bartlett, and Robert Mayer of Elgin. There are also four grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Public Service Company Reduces Electric Rates

Electric rate reductions for approximately 95 per cent of 250,000 domestic or residential customers of the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois, totaling more than $720,000 annually, were announced yesterday by James M. Slattery, chairman of the Illinois Commerce Commission.

This makes a total of $2,685,000 annual reductions in rates by this company since 1934. On May 2 of that year the commission ordered electric rates reduced $1,300,000 annually, and in October, 1937, there was another cut of $855,000.

During the administration of Governor Horner the commerce commission has reduced utility rates in Illinois over $20,000,000 annually, including the present reduction. The $720,000 reductions will become effective on meter readings on or after May 1.

They were the result of a series of conferences and studies by the staff of the state regulatory body and representatives of the company over a period of two months in keeping with Governor Horner's often stated policy that the primary duty of the Commerce Commission under his administration is to secure fair and reasonable rates to the public for public utility services. This procedure eliminated the necessity of formal hearings which would cover a period of many months with attendant huge expenditures by both the company and tax payers.

The utility serves 315 communities with electricity in the north-eastern part of Illinois. Included are such cities and towns as Cicero, Oak Park, Evanston, Berwyn, Joliet, Waukegan, Maywood, Chicago Heights, Kankakee, Pontiac and Streator.

Most of the customers receiving reductions in three, four, five, six and seven room homes will have their monthly bills reduced in an amount ranging from 5 1/2% to 8.8%, with the latter reduction occurring most frequently. For example, a three room customer using 20 kw. hrs. per month would pay $1.36 under present rates and $1.24 under the new rates, a reduction of 12c or 8.8%. A five room customer using 60 kw. hrs. per month would pay $3.67 under present rates and $3.40 under the new rates, a saving of 27c or 7.3%. Also a six room customer using 40 kw. hrs. per month would pay $2.72 under present rates and $2.48 under the new rates, a saving of 24c or 8.8%, and such a customer using 80 kw. hrs. per month would pay $4.60 under present rates and $4.32 under the new rates, a saving of 28c or 6.1%. Most of the customers in eight, nine and ten room homes will receive reductions ranging from 8.8% to 15%, depending upon the amount of electricity used. For example, a nine room customer using 200 kw. hrs. per month would pay $8.82 under present rates and $7.56 under the new rates, a saving of $1.26 or 14.3%. Savings for larger homes depend upon the number of rooms and the amount of electricity used. Since roughly 80% of the company's customers live in homes of four to seven rooms, most of the customers will receive reductions in their monthly bills from 5 1/2% to 8.8%.

The chairman explained that the reduction was secured without prolonged and expensive hearings. Based on a preliminary report made to him by the commission's experts, he requested the company officials to discuss the matter with him and his associate members on the commission. The company was asked to reduce the residential rates. After some negotiations and full consideration to current economic conditions, Mr. Slattery said, $700,000 was set as the minimum amount acceptable to the commission. The company agreed to put that reduction into effect without litigation.

It was explained that the company has the so-called room type of rates under which the amount charged for electricity varies with the number of rooms in a home. Under the new rates, the room feature is not entirely eliminated, but the rate has been considerably simplified.

The new rate of 2 cents per KWH for all over 100 KWH is the same as the rate enjoyed by customers in Chicago.

Hayrack Party Upset By Driver On Higgins Road

A hayrack party ended in disaster Saturday evening on Higgins road near Cumberland avenue when Adolph Pump, R. 1, Des Plaines, collided with the horses and wagon driven by Silas Jayne, Chicago.

Two of the sixteen occupants were taken to the hospital, Mrs. Anna Counihan, 2259 Kildare avenue, Chicago, to the Northwestern hospital, in Des Plaines, and James Bornhoeft, 306 Merrill avenue, Park Ridge, to the St. Frances hospital, Evanston. Both of the horses involved, died in the accident. Jayne filed a complaint against Pump.

Taxpayers Urged To Pay Delinquent Taxes And Save Penalties

by RAYMOND T. O'KEEFE, JR.

Urging taxpayers to pay their 1936 delinquent taxes before they are sold or forfeited, County Clerk Michael J. Flynn today emphasized the heavy penalty that could be avoided by acting immediately.

"Most persons are unaware that they can save 12% or even 36% and more if they do not allow their taxes to be sold or forfeited," Mr. Flynn declared.

Second installment of 1936 property taxes were due December 1, 1937 and these have just been ordered sold by the county court. A 12% penalty on total amount of sale is added as soon as taxes are sold. Six months after this date the penalty increases to 24%; another six months, and penalty amounts to 36%. In the event no bids are made on taxes when they come up for sale, they become forfeited and a 12% penalty goes on immediately. This increases by another 12% after each year.

"If property holder acts quickly," Mr. Flynn announced, "he very likely can pay off his delinquent taxes before they come up for sale, and thus avoid the severe penalties." Judgement against lands and lots described as being delinquent were granted county collector by the county court on February 21 and these are the ones now being offered for sale.

Taxpayers requesting information on amount of special and general assessments due against their property may apply for a tax search at the county clerk's office. Well-trained clerks in Mr. Flynn's office carefully follow up a tax-search order and go as far back as four years, although further search can be made on payment of an additional fee for the intricate investigation.

Not long ago I saw an editorial in the Baltimore Sun on drunken driving, from which I want to quote a paragraph:

"Nobody has ever been hanged for one of these affairs, although some of them were just as much murder as if the victim had been shot from ambush. When a fool gets blind drunk and sends a 5,000 pound motor car hurtling through the streets, at fifty miles an hour, any killing he does is not an accident—it is cold blooded first degree murder. If justice prevailed, the driver's neck would be broken by the common hangman."

That's pretty tough, but stop and think a moment what chance anybody has on foot, against a terrific speed of fifty or sixty miles an hour governed only by a man whose judgment is blurred and practically obliterated by liquor.

I will leave the answer with you.

The uncovering of Rome's imperial glory is a matter of recent history. During the Middle ages the very name of the Forum was forgotten, its ancient pavements at places more than forty feet below the level of the ground, just an accumulation of rubbish until the Roman government started excavating on a large scale a number of years ago.

Important Suggestions on Brooding Chicks

In previous articles in this column, I have outlined the most successful brooding and feeding schedules for early hatched chicks from day-old to 12-weeks of age. However, there were several miscellaneous points on brooder house management that I want to cover to complete the series. That is the purpose of this article.

Train Chicks to Roost Early

Once the chicks have been trained to roost at night, the dangers of crowding and sweating are past. So it should be every poultry raiser's aim to get the chicks on the roosts at the earliest possible age. Leghorns take readily to roosts at 2-3 weeks of age. Heavy breeds can be trained to roost at 4-5 weeks, although some poultry raisers are successful in getting them on the roosts a week earlier.

To train the chicks to roost, build frames with wide, flat roosts, 1"x2" slats with the flat side up, are about right. At first the roosting frames should be set flat on the floor and then raised gradually as all of the chicks take to roosting.

Never remove the brooder stove heat from early hatched chicks until they have learned to roost. If temperatures are reduced gradually about five degrees each week, the heat can be removed at eight weeks of age, providing always that the chicks are roosting at night.

Cleaning the Brooder House

For the first ten days, keep a thick litter in the brooder house. While the chicks are young, they do not soil the litter very rapidly. So long as the litter is kept dry, it need not be changed until the tenth day. After that, change the litter and disinfect the brooder house once a week.

The best litter is cut straw, alfalfa or peat moss. Sprinkle a little sand on the floor each time the litter is changed. This will make the house much easier to clean as the sand prevents dirt from sticking to the floor.

Plant Shade Early

The best shade is provided by trees, with branches trimmed high so that the sun can get to all parts of the ground, underneath the tree, at some time during the day. However very few farms are fortunate enough to provide both tree shade and clean range for the chicks every year. The best substitute is to plant the shade.

Sunflowers are best for this purpose, although many farmers use corn. However, sunflowers can be planted early and will provide shade for the hot days of June, while corn is still too small. For that reason, I always recommend sunflowers.

It is best to plant 5 or 6 long rows of sunflowers. Then skip about 25 to 30 feet and plant another 5 or 6 rows. In this way, good ground ventilation is supplied with plenty of shade.

Few people realize that chicks do best where the air is purified by green growth. Yet apparently, this is a fact. At any rate, it is far better to supply green plants for summer shade than shade shelters.

Don't forget to plant green feed for the growing stock as well. Start with oats in March and April. Plant sudan grass in May and June. The feed bill will be greatly reduced if these tender cereal grasses are available. Sudan grass supply green feed as long as it is growing while oats, rye, wheat or barley grass will supply early greens.

Palatine Loses To New Trier In Semi-Finals At Waukegan

MAC SAYS

—By—

Gerald A. Mc Elroy

The longest and one of the most successful court seasons on record at Palatine is over. The Pirates started practice on October 18 and closed the season on March 4 when they were eliminated in the Regional semi-finals in a close game at the hands of New Trier who went on to trim Waukegan in the final.

Palatine was the first conference school to start basketball and the last to stop due to superior success in the tournaments. The boys played 24 games over a period of four months and won 19 of them from heavyweight opponents. The lightweights won 14 out of 18, making a grand total of 33 victories and nine defeats for the season.

O'Brien, Buenzow, and Nangle played in all 24 of the heavyweight games and missed only three quarters out of a total of 96. O'Brien scored 199 points and Nangle 183. In the five tournament games Nangle scored 54 and O'Brien 52. Nangle averaged 12 points a game for nine contests after being shifted from guard to forward.

Fink, an in and out playing until late season, settled down and played good ball in the final drive. His couple of baskets a game was just what the team needed to win nine games out of the 10 played in the last month.

Buenzow was the outstanding defensive player of the team all year and along with Nangle probably the most improved player on the squad. He was a steady and ever dependable back guard. Hollinger, a freshman, won a regular guard position for the tournament games. He was the coolest kid for his experience we have ever seen. His best work was against Elan and New Trier when the competition was the toughest. He is the best player as a freshman that Palatine has had and a straight A student besides.

The other three boys who played a big part in the recent success of the Pirates are Thompson and Freise, two of the most improved seniors on the squad at guard and forward respectively, and Snyder, the little freshman forward, who like the seniors delivered in the pinch.

Of these eight boys, four will be back for another year at least. With Buenzow, a junior, and Hollinger, a freshman, at guards, and Fink, a sophomore, and Snyder, a freshman, in the front line, Palatine has the nucleus of a good team for several years to come.

Any charge of over emphasis upon basketball at Palatine is entirely without foundation. No other activity has been curtailed to give extra time to basketball. Boys from the teams have entered actively in the work of the band, school paper, glee club, dramatic club, and other organizations. First team players were in the casts of the junior play given in December and two of the regulars practiced daily as members of the Senior play cast during the period of the tournaments. Scholarship requirements have been rigidly enforced and several good players were dropped from the squads when they slacked up in their class room duties.

This year athletics as well as other activities at Palatine high school have become more nearly a part of the regular curriculum than in the past. The school day has been slightly lengthened and nearly all activities have been given a definite time in the daily schedule. First squad basketball was scheduled along with other classes for the last hour of the day. This squad, which in reality included most of the regular lightweights as well as heavyweights, met four times a week until February when practices were limited to three days. An after school squad of lightweights and intra mural league players practiced twice weekly. Mr. Vervloet coached and supervised an intra mural league which had games once a week and took care of all the boys interested in basketball who were not on the regular squads.

About 45 boys, or half of those in school, played basketball regularly. A number of the boys on the first team squad had after school jobs which they were able to continue with no interference from basketball. The only things the boys were asked to give up for basketball were those which interfered directly with their maintaining good physical condition.

Why did Palatine enjoy such a successful season with a team made up of so many underclassmen? The answer is mainly that the boys liked to play basketball better than anything else. Because of this the boys worked hard and improved all the way along. The morale or spirit of the boys were exceptional. Most of the games were won through spirited last half or last quarter rallies. We had few boys who ever doubted we could win. The kids never gave up trying no matter how far they were behind. The coaching of Dixon and "Red" Helms helped give us the best crop of Freshmen Palatine has ever had. Palatine's other championship team have been made up mostly of seniors along with a few juniors. Many of them were better coached and gave a more polished exhibition of basketball, but none of them had a thing on Palatine's tournament

Strain of Five Tourney Games Tell On Pirates In Second Half Drive When Quintet Fails To Make Set-ups After Taking Ball from Champs

Five Northwest Conference schools were entered in the Regional tournament at Waukegan last week-end, but only Palatine got by the first round. Waukegan beat Lake Forest 35-29, Highland Park dropped Niles Center 45-31, New Trier trimmed Arlington 49-25, and Palatine bumped Libertyville 29-23 in the first round games.

In the semi-finals Friday night, Waukegan defeated Highland Park 35-27 in a game which was very close until the last quarter. New Trier stopped Palatine's winning streak at nine straight, winning 34-25 in a close hard fought game. Pirates surprise New Trier.

Palatine put up a strong defense which New Trier could not penetrate successfully and had built up a 15-7 lead over the big school by the end of 12 minutes of play. The tiring Pirates slowed up getting back on defense near the end of the half and the Winnetka boys pulled ahead 18-17 at the intermission.

Neither team could get anywhere in the third period which ended 22-19. In the last quarter, New Trier hit the loop over the Pirates zone and scored several baskets on a fast break to build up a 10 point lead. Several regulars were out getting a much needed rest when this rally started, but returned to the game and started a Palatine rally which resembled the one in the Elan game at the Waukegan tourney except that after taking the ball away from New Trier guards time after time the Pirates, O'Brien, Nangle, and Fink, failed to sink their set up shots. In fact Palatine made but 13 per cent of their shots and scored but one field goal in the second half.

Both teams were dead at the free throw line. Palatine scored 13 out of 19 and New Trier seven out of 10. O'Brien was high scorer of the game with 10 points. Palatine might have won had they not been all in from four previous tournament games, all of which were tough ones.

New Trier Wins Tourney
New Trier went on to take the tournament Saturday night when they beat Waukegan 35-30 in the final.

Trim Wildcats 29-23
Palatine's first round victory over Libertyville left the Pirates the only team from the Northwest conference to get into a regional semi-final. The Pirates built up a 13-7 lead early in the Libertyville game, but saw part of it disappear at the half which ended 15-13. The Wildcats forged ahead in the third period led by Sitz and at one time were leading 20-15, but the Pirates pulled up to 20-19 at the quarter. Nangle returned to the game in the last period, after a rest, and scored four baskets in six shots to put the game on ice. Altogether Nangle made 15 points and the Pirates scored 24 per cent of their shots. Sitz led the Wildcats with five field goals.

Outstanding Guards
Nangle scored 20 points and O'Brien, besides his outstanding floor work, garnered 18 counters. Fink made two baskets each game and showed great improvement over his work at Waukegan. Buenzow and Hollinger at guards looked just as good as the best the big schools had to offer.

New Trier Downs Cards In First Round

Arlington's Cardinals wound up their 1937-38 basketball season with another defeat. This came at the Illinois state basketball tourney at Waukegan last Thursday when New Trier of Winnetka defeated Arlington 49-25 in a game which started as a good contest and wound up a near rout for Arlington.

Up until Milligan, the Cardinals giant center and Joe Mueller at guard had accumulated too many fouls the game was almost even. Had the somewhat scared Cardinals been able to capitalize on their chances the first half could easily have wound up with Arlington leading.

As it was they blew several opportunities to score. Consequently when Mueller and Milligan went out there was no one but Baxter able to cope with New Trier under the basket and they surged to the front with a quick flurry of baskets. From there on Arlington battled in vain.

Bud Chidley finished up his high school basketball by leading the Cardinals scorers with seven points. Baxter and Mueller also played very good games.

Reynolds, New Trier hot shot, was too much for Arlington, he alone accumulating 18 points.

Invention of Cellophane
According to accounts, credit for the invention or discovery of cellophane belongs to Dr. J. E. Brandenberger, a Swiss chemist. Dr. Brandenberger was born in 1872 and graduated from the University of Bern. About 1900, while employed as a chemist in a textile factory in the Vosges district of France, he made thin sheets of viscose to combine with cotton fabric in an attempt to produce a tablecloth impervious to dirt. Thus by accident he stumbled on cellophane. Other chemists have made a similar product, but Dr. Brandenberger was the first to commercialize it.

Palatine Drops Two Games in Playoff Series; Lions To Dine

It was lots of fun while it lasted but the dream of a Palatine Championship faded into thin air last Monday night when the Des Plaines Lions took Palatine into camp, two games out of three.

There was no question but that the Des Plaines Club out bowled the Palatine team and yet Palatine as a team was not up to its usual standard. Roy La Londe, the doughty president, tried his best to bring him the "bacon" or was it the trophy with his series of 533 pins, one game of which was 204, but there were too many feet dragging and as a consequence the lead was too heavy.

Ed. Schulze, the banking bowler, proved to be a real anchor man and kept his team in first place by rolling a 561 series and finishing the season with the league high individual average.

A dinner will be served to all bowlers next Monday night at the Emmanuel Lutheran school in Des Plaines at 6:30 o'clock. All members of the four Lions clubs that were in the League are invited to be present with their lady friends. The dinner is being served at 60c per plate. Reservation should be made with Lion Wille, of Des Plaines, not later than Thursday or Friday of this week.

The scores for last Monday night follow:
Des Plaines
R. Schulze 159 172 160-491
Flaminio 170 176 174-520

Origin of Pageants in Doubt
The origin of pageants is lost in obscurity. The Coventry pageant depicting the story of Lady Godiva has been given since 1673.

Itasca won the second half championship of the Lutheran Basketball League by defeating Arlington 45 to 43.

It was a real thriller for the large crowd who turned out to see these two teams battle it out for first place honors. Itasca started out right from the start and rang up six points before the local boys scored any. At the end of the quarter the score stood six to five in Itasca's favor.

In the second quarter Arlington gained one point and the half ended with the score tied 17 to 17. The third quarter saw both teams score rather freely. Arlington took a two point lead at the end of the quarter.

The final period was packed with excitement both teams matching basket for basket, when with less than two minutes left to play Hoppenstedt dropped in a one handed shot from the side and Elbert followed with another shot from the side. Arlington scored one more basket, but couldn't quite make up the four points they needed.

Roselle beat Park Ridge 32 to 26 in the preliminary game.

Itasca will meet Palatine Sunday afternoon at 3 p. m., for the Zone championship.

Subscriber Writes Of Kansas Farm Life

"Western Kansas has been noted for its unusually healthy climate as the many tourists will vouch for. It is also a fine cattle raising and produce growing country. "Private irrigation systems brought experiments and of late years this region has been widely advertised by the successful production of potatoes. Perhaps there are 'cycles of years,' the fat and the lean, but unfortunately this great expanse of country has suffered drought along with other states at this period 1932-34 and 5, bringing great losses to farmers and ranchers whose failures reflected to the city dwellers. Distress was common with depression and less than cost of production prices on the farm when the best quality of grains and the greatest quantity ever recorded left indebtedness to the greatest industry of mankind.

"Through all these disappointments people kept up the courage for which Kansans are famous. They tried again and again. For the second year crops were promising, but turned to failure for want of rain. The seed grains were very expensive and in instances prohibitive. The fields were overgrown with weeds which eventually could not survive the unusually dry weather.

Thistles Proves Valuable

"However the Russian thistle appeared on the scene. Once a despised weed it is now recognized as a valuable feed when harvested at the proper stage of maturity. When the plants are scattering they grow to immense sizes—two feet high and four feet across not an uncommon growth, forming the 'tumbling tumble weed' the pioneers sing to us about. The wind takes them across fields where seeds are deposited and are a nuisance unless a seed bed is prepared and they are cured as hay. The best quality is one foot in height and not much coarser than broomstraws. Cattle prefer them to good alfalfa, and often they are a life saver when everything else fails.

"Even weeds eventually could not survive the scorching winds and dry weather. Local showers scarcely preserved pastures from becoming entire deserts after four years of drought. Dust piled in fields and fences. Gardeners levelled their ground with teams and shovels, but March, 1935 brought fresh snow onto the job, not only to clear yards and garden plots, but highways as well.

Describes 1935 Dust Storm

"March and April in Kansas are treacherous months any year, but 1935 ushered in the 'Dust Storms,' guest of President Hoover at the White House. 'All right, we'll try.' We had to shout to hear each other. 'Have you a handkerchief?' 'Yes, a bandana around my neck.' 'I'll tear mine in two if you want to leave it there.' 'No, you use all your own and I'll use this one.' He took it over my face and I likewise arranged his, and with instructions to NEVER let go of him, we started to walk. The dirt was soft and filled my shoes. The visor of the cap protected my eyes a little. I was completely lost. Chet says 'don't fret—I know where we are and the direction of the wind.' I could not see at all, so closed my eyes and plodded along. We're to the highway—I can tell by the hard dirt—hold tight and we'll make it—soon be a down hill pull. A mile now against the wind and oh! so black! 'Don't pull me—you'll break a leg sure as you land in the ditch. Just let me lead—hold on now for if you get loose I could not find you in all this noise and blackness, and we'd stand no show if zero and maybe snow sets in.' I tried to obey every word and had not realized I was pulling on him. I asked the good Lord to guide us to safety and felt sure we would make it. The wind blew us backward a step or two now and then. 'If only it doesn't turn cold, we are all right—Hold to me—I'm going to get down and feel for the auto-pass (for information these passes are placed on roads here similar to railroad cattle passes in the east.) 'No auto pass yet—let's go to the left fence and see if we are near the turn.' I followed, always holding tight to him. About face and back to the highway. Imagine my feelings when I felt the moist muzzle of my police dog in my palm—my companion of many lonely days on the prairies. This cheered us a lot. I opened my eyes as I turned backward for a rest and noticed what I thought was an approaching car, but it proved to be electricity on the wire fence. I walked backward a few steps, but the dirt whipped under my mask and almost smothered me. Eventually, the auto pass. 'You crawl and I'll hold to you—I can walk I think—oh now we're safe and only a quarter of a mile to a house.' The wind had suddenly subsided—apparently to gather fresh momentum—and we ran down the hill while we could faintly see. 'Oh, there's a light in the window—maybe the family has made it in.' The lights, however were car lights, visible not over twenty feet. No one responded to my call, so we went into the house anyway. I removed my muddy mask—mud from breath and dust which clung to my lashes like mas-

'Guy', Former Editor, Writes Letter Home

Portland, Oregon
March 2, 1938

To Publishers and Readers of
Du Page County Register:

I promised when we left Illinois to write occasionally regarding conditions, etc., in this part of the U. S. A. Well it will soon be five months since we departed from Bensenville and while we miss the daily chats with many of you, we cannot say, but what we have enjoyed the beautiful weather, they dispense here on the coast. We had plenty of rain from the time we arrived till Feb. 24, when the bright sunshine came forth and reminded us that spring was near. Well, the sun has shone almost continually through the day time since. We had a couple of showers during the past two nights but bright sun during the daytime.

The leaves on the rose bushes are out about a half inch in length and several kinds of flowers are now in bloom. We have some flowers that we replanted this spring that are budding out now.

The thermometer rests around 63 above during the day now and nights rests around 50 above, so you see house heating is something we do not have to worry much about.

We have enjoyed seeing the country round about Portland as we get out for a drive almost every afternoon. Have covered almost three thousand miles just sight seeing since our arrival.

Oregon has passed an unemployment compensation law whereby anyone laid off from their job can collect one-half pay for 16 weeks when laid off. That is after the the scheme has worked admirably.

1,000 People In Rabbit Drive

"A high wire netting fence is set up in semi-circular fashion with wing sides extending as much as 80 rods. A drive is advertised for a certain hour on a particular date over a designated area. Captains are appointed or chosen, usually by county farm agents. No dogs nor guns allowed on the grounds—just clubs. Citizens come from 25 to 50 miles to assist, and schools are often dismissed. Tourists lay over for the event and out of state spectators arrive by car loads. Men, women, youths, boys and girls join in the drive walking for miles while the cars follow slowly behind. The largest drive ever staged was six by twelve miles and over 1,000 persons eager to do their bit to rid the infested acres of the pests. Closing in is the exciting time. The few cotton tails find holes to get into and an occasional coyote breaks through the lines. Lots of whooping and sometimes a bump from mother's club as we gradually urge the jacks into the netting trap. They are beautiful animals and when bunched make a most attractive picture. Finally they are in close quarters and killing begins. I have seen girls 14 to 18 years of age in the traps with the men and boys aiming as accurately and as efficiently as they pounce and slap until the last lovely creature lies bleeding, with fur ascending high into the air and on clothing of participants. Transport trucks are in waiting for the carcasses to deliver them into the making of tankage and fertilizer. The hides damaged and unfit for sale. Farmers are always allowed supplies of the flesh for hog feed.

"This brings us to the 'humane' discussion. Authorities protested after the second drive, because of the cruelty exhibited. Investigators favored the farmer who discovered the logical solution of eradication of pests, so now people can abolish such nuisances in their own way and can also boast that no serious accident has ever been reported. Vegetation will again thrive in this fertile country, given the normally favorable weather."

Crowd Into Cavern for Protection

"We rested in the crowded cavern until much quieter outside, then we returned to the house. The little home-maker had baked two lemon pies and luckily had covered them well. I relished my portion more than any I had ever eaten. The lemon soothed my palate and helped to cleanse my throat. It was now eleven o'clock at night and we had left home around 6 o'clock in the afternoon! A sort of reddish hue replaced the terrible black and our host kindly took us home. The fowls were scattered and squatted over the prairie. We gathered them up by car light and were careful not to step on others that had been feeding in the house and failed to make it onto the roosts, so suddenly did the darkness cover them.

"The next morning radio and telephone announced deaths from suffocation. It makes me shudder, yet when I think of what might have been the toll had this storm reached blizzard proportions. People trapped on the highways were obliged to park right where they were—and take it for hours.

"As I recall this event, I marvel that so many survived and thank God for our preservation. It is now January of 1938, and the first dust of the year has reached us. I have again brought out the quarter inch rope I keep to tie to the house extending to chicken house, mail box, fuel bins to lead me in any time I might be caught outside in a 'black blizzard.' Acres and acres of excellent wheat may be blown out or buried if snow or rain is withheld much longer. The abnormally dry weather for five years has created the popular 'Dust Bowl.' We are not far from the 'capital' of this area. These conditions are suitable for the survival of young jack rabbits and they multiplied by thousands, completely devouring plants and roots of alfalfa. Wheat has been destroyed and pasture and garden losses were unbearable. Some person got the idea of rabbit drives in our section of Kansas and first two weeks which does not figure in the time. The U. P. shops closed down Jan. 15 and did not open up till Feb. 15 and the men laid off are receiving one-half pay for the last two weeks off. As they were drawing about $30 per week, it gave them $15 a week for two weeks. It surely carried them over that period and should they be laid off again this year they go back on the state insurance till they have the 16 weeks compensation drawn. While we heard some about strikes back east, we never saw so much of the real situation till we came to the coast.

The saw mill industry has been shut down most of the time for several months and mostly because of the quarrels between opposite factions of the labor world. When mill owners are willing to deal satisfactorily with the workers, another branch of labor says "Nothing doing." So many a man who wants to work for mill owners who want them to work are unable to work, or if they try to work are liable to be waylaid by some brother workman.

About living conditions here we can say that as a whole, living is cheaper than there. Fresh vegetables and meats and eggs are priced lower than we see quoted there. Most groceries are slightly lower in price here also. As I was writing this at 11:45 a. m. Wednesday, March 2, my mother who has her radio in her own room called me to listen to the broadcast coming from the scene of flooded Los Angeles, California. The announcer who appeared to be somewhat excited, reminded me of the radio announcer who broadcast from the scene of the stockyard fire in Chicago a few days ago.

Mother who has passed her 83rd year, surely enjoys her radio and can be seen every forenoon sitting by her radio with her sewing basket by her side and she sewing strips of cloth together or else knitting them into rugs. Despite her years she keeps busy during the forenoons and then also enjoys a ride through the country with us in the afternoon.

Mrs. Sampson and Virginia, as well as myself, keep well and happy in the wonderful climate here. I have kept busy (when not out riding) cleaning yard, sowing grass seed and keeping lawn looking nice. And if anyone ever tells me again that once one goes on a pension they can consider that their days are about to a close, I can't see it. One can keep mind and body occupied even when on pension and that will keep them young. I, for one, am well pleased that I retired from actual labor while I was young enough to enjoy some of the beauties that God has placed here for our enjoyment.

We anticipate a ride to Spokane in the near future and expect to make a trip to California when Virginia's school has vacation. So the Oldsmobile comes in for its share of spreading sunshine along life's pathway for us all. Well, I must get lunch and take my women folks for a ride as the sun is shining beautifully today as it has the last week. We really enjoy reading the Register and it is a busy sheet after it arrives Tuesday morning, till we all get it read through. So with best wishes to all our dear friends in and outside of the Register office, Yours truly,

Guy E. Sampson,
Portland, Ore.
